Referring to your order of August 18th. We have the issues of the American Journal for which you write and I should have sent them to you without delay had I not had my attention called to the fact that we have never received payment for three previous consignments sent you, of which a statement was mailed you on June 16th. The last of these was billed under date of May 4th. The total of the three invoices is $8.91. If we may have your check for this amount, we shall be very glad to send the numbers of the American Journal to you.

Very truly yours,
